A Note from Dwayne Katzer

Dear Parish Family,

Many of you have noticed that I have not been present as deacon at Mass lately. I need to let you know that I've been on a leave of absence from the Diaconate and, for personal reasons, I am stepping down from active ministry in the Church. Please know that I have treasured my years here at St. Sabina's and the people I have gotten to know. I do plan to remain here at the parish as a member of the church and so I will be seeing you. Thank you all for the love you have shown me, and please keep me and my family in your prayers as I will continue to pray for all of you.

God's blessings to you all,

Dwayne

Lifestyle Changes to Decrease Your Risk for Cancer

The World Cancer Research Fund estimates that about one-quarter to one-third of all cancer cases could be eliminated with dietary changes and increased physical activity. Your actions can have a real effect on your health. Minor changes can have a major impact.

Start with: A long walk instead of sitting all day. Abundant research has shown that people who exercise regularly have a lower risk of certain cancers, and when it comes to breast and lung cancer, two recent studies presented this year at the American Society of Clinical Oncology's annual meeting clearly show why you should really get moving. In a study of more than 130,000 postmenopausal women, those who spent more time exercising were less likely to develop lung cancer. Benefits were seen even among smokers. Exercise also seems to influence breast cancer risk: Researchers in France found that women who were the most physically active were 12 percent less likely to develop breast cancer than those who moved the least.

Stewardship

"They both ran, but the other disciple ran faster than Peter and arrived at the tomb first; he bent down and saw the burial cloths there, but did not go in. When Simon Peter arrived after him, he went into the tomb and saw the burial cloths there, and the cloth that had covered his head, not with the burial cloths but rolled up in a separate place. Then the other disciple also went in, the one who had arrived at the tomb first, and he saw and believed. For they did not yet understand the Scripture that he had to rise from the dead."

John 20: 4-9

It is difficult for us to fully comprehend the importance of this day and its meaning for us, its fulfillment of hope for us. We consider this to be the most important day on our Church calendar. If we have properly approached the Lenten period, this day comes at the end of a period of prayer and fasting and almsgiving. We should have been prepared to spiritually die with Christ, and to rise as He did on this day to the promise of new life both in this world and the next. Christ has saved us, and that alone is reason for our joyous celebration. By receiving the Eucharist (communion) on this day, we make a visible sign of our faith and our participation in the Kingdom of God. — See more at www.catholicsteward.com/blog/

Reflection on the Readings

We have journeyed through Lent and we enter the great fifty days of Easter, a week of weeks in which we celebrate the victory of Christ over evil, sin and death. The seasonal Sundays are referred to as the Sundays “of” Easter, in contrast to the time when they were called the Sundays “after” Easter. Easter is celebrated for fifty days, culminating with the feast of Pentecost.

During these fifty days, the first reading, usually taken from the Old Testament, is now replaced by selections from the Acts of the Apostles. This shift helps us focus on the reaction of the early communities of believers to the resurrected Christ, along with their enthusiasm and passion for mission in response to the gift of the Spirit.

The refrain of responsorial Psalm 118 captures the focus of the Easter season when it proclaims: “This is the day the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad.” It affirms the joy of Easter, the gift of new life and the possibilities offered to us as pure gifts from God. The psalm verses speak of God’s mercy enduring forever, and of God’s great power which rescues the psalmist even from death’s clutches. These verses prefigure Christ, the rejected stone that “has become the cornerstone.” Today we praise and thank God for the rich gift of Christ, the incarnation of God’s love and mercy which “endures forever.”

The first reading from Acts narrates a portion of Peter’s sermons to the early communities of believers which speak of the Easter events, and what those events mean for all humanity. These early communities responded with enthusiasm and joy to the commission that Jesus gave them through the power of the Spirit to testify and witness to Jesus as the long awaited messiah, and as “judge of the living and the dead.” Peter shares the great joy they have experienced in Jesus with all people when he affirms that “everyone who believes in him will receive forgiveness of sin through his name.” “Let us rejoice and be glad.”

The letter to the Colossians stresses that in the Risen Christ we are called to a new mindset, a new worldview and a new way of acting. By committing ourselves to the risen Christ, we die to our old selves and seek only what is above, the mind and heart of Christ. Persisting in our union with Christ, we too will rise in glory, and be ever united with God in Christ. How can we not “rejoice and be glad?”

The gospel reading from John recounts how Mary Magdalene, the beloved disciple and Peter all try to make sense of the reality of the empty tomb. Each in their own way struggles to see, to comprehend what has happened and to come to belief. As we experience the Easter season, we too enter into that same struggle to make sense of the Resurrection reality. What does resurrection mean to us, and what difference does it make in our lives?

Resurrection essentially communicates God’s reality that evil, sin and death are not the last word on the ultimate meaning of life. Rather, God can and does transform even the most limiting and debilitating human experiences into occasions for new life and meaning. Death is not the end. Rather death is the way to new life. Jesus walked that path, and invites us to join him on this journey to God.

Do you really believe that God can and does bring new life and meaning even out of our most limiting and debilitating experience of life? This is what we are proclaiming when we claim to be Easter people. May the Lord’s Easter joy be yours in abundance.

Reflexión Sobre las Lecturas

Hemos pasado por la Cuaresma y entramos en los grandes cincuenta días de Pascua, unas semanas en las que se celebra la victoria de Cristo sobre el mal, el pecado y la muerte. Los domingos de esta temporada se les conoce como los domingos "de" Pascua, a diferencia del tiempo cuando fueron llamados los domingos "después de" Pascua. La Pascua se celebra durante cincuenta días, que culmina con la fiesta de Pentecostés.

Durante estos cincuenta días, la primera lectura, generalmente tomado del Antiguo Testamento, ha sido sustituido por selecciones de los Hechos de los Apóstoles. Este cambio nos ayuda a centrarnos en la reacción de las primeras comunidades de creyentes a Cristo resucitado, junto con su entusiasmo y pasión por la misión en respuesta al don del Espíritu.

El estribillo del Salmo responsorial 118 captura la atención del tiempo de Pascua cuando proclama: "Este es el día en que actuó el Señor: sea nuestra alegría y nuestro gozo." Afirma la alegría de la Pascua, el don de la nueva vida y las posibilidades que se nos ofrece como regalos puros de Dios. Los versos del salmo hablan de que la misericordia de Dios permanece para siempre, y del gran poder de Dios que rescata el salmista incluso de las garras de la muerte. Estos versos prefiguran a Cristo, la piedra rechazada que "se ha convertido en la piedra angular." Hoy alabamos y damos gracias a Dios por el rico don de Cristo, la encarnación del amor y la misericordia de Dios, que "permanece para siempre."

La primera lectura de los Hechos narra una parte de los sermones de Pedro a las primeras comunidades de creyentes que hablan de los eventos de Pascua, y lo que significan esos eventos para toda la humanidad. Estas primeras comunidades respondieron con entusiasmo y alegría a la comisión que Jesús les dio a través del poder del Espíritu para dar testimonio de Jesús como el Mesías tan esperado, y como "juez de los vivos y los muertos." Pedro comparte la gran alegría que han experimentado en Jesús con toda la gente cuando afirma que "cuantos creen en él reciben, por su medio, el perdón de los pecados." Que "sea nuestra alegría y nuestro gozo."

La carta a los Colosenses enfatiza que en el Cristo resucitado somos llamados a una nueva mentalidad, una nueva visión del mundo y una nueva forma de actuar. Al comprometernos al Cristo resucitado, morimos a nosotros mismos y buscamos sólo lo que está en lo alto, la mente y el corazón de Cristo. Persistiendo en nuestra unión con Cristo, también nosotros resucitaremos en gloria, y estaremos siempre unido a Dios en Cristo. ¿Cómo no "sea nuestra alegría y nuestro gozo?"

La lectura del Evangelio de Juan relata que María Magdalena, el discípulo amado y Pedro todos tratan de dar sentido a la realidad de la tumba vacía. Cada uno a su manera les cuesta ver, comprender lo que ha pasado y venir a la creencia. Mientras que experimentamos la temporada de Pascua, nosotros también entramos en esa misma lucha para dar sentido a la realidad de la Resurrección. ¿Qué significa la resurrección para nosotros, y qué diferencia hace en nuestras vidas?

Resurrección comunica esencialmente la realidad de Dios que el mal, el pecado y la muerte no son la última palabra sobre el significado último de la vida. Más bien, Dios puede y transforma incluso las experiencias humanas más limitantes y debilitantes a ocasiones para la nueva vida y significado. La muerte no es el fin. Más bien la muerte es el camino a la nueva vida. Jesús caminó ese camino, y nos invita a unirnos a él en este viaje a Dios.

¿Realmente cree que Dios puede y trae nueva vida y significado incluso fuera de nuestra experiencia de la vida más limitante y mas debilitante? Esto es lo que proclamamos, cuando declaramos que somos una gente de Pascua. Que la alegría de la Pascua del Señor sea suya en abundancia.
